

My favourite role model

by John Liu 2D(10)

Jamie Oliver is my favourite role model. He is a world-famous chef who writes best-selling cookbooks. He got that honor because he cooks yummy food which is healthy for our body. His TV programmes are useful because he teaches people to cook easily and in a relaxing way. He is especially concerned about teenagers. He sends poor young people to school to learn cooking so that they become skillful and confident.

I think Jamie Oliver is kind and smart. I agree with his view that unhealthy eating has bad effects on children. I also appreciate his decision of sending poor young people to school to learn cooking. After they develop cooking skills, they get jobs in restaurants. Finally they can support their own families and other poor youngsters.

Jamie Oliver is a successful person. He is leading a very meaningful life. I hope I can have a chance to learn cooking from him so that I can make delicious dishes and promote healthy eating with him.
