Rescuing a Puppy

Today, my classmates and I went to a large park for our school picnic day. At first, we played together, enjoying football, basketball, and hide -and- seek. Because the whole class was there, the park was very crowded, but it was still fun to play group game s.

While playing hide -and- seek, I hid behind a tree and spotted a little puppy stuck up in the branches. I shouted, "Stop the game! I see a puppy stuck in the tree! Let's go rescue it!" All of my classmates ran over and asked where it was. I pointed it out to them, and we were all scared that the puppy might fall.

I ran to tell my teacher, who was very kind. She borrowed a ladder and climbed up to rescue the puppy. Finally, the puppy was safe! We were all so happy and began to celebrate. However, we wondered where the puppy's owner was. My teacher said, "Don't worry ; the owner is probably looking for it. Let's take care of the puppy for now."

A few hours later, it was time to go back to school, but we still hadn't found the owner. We felt very sad. But then, something happened! As we were packing our things, we saw a man looking at the tree, appearing very nervous. We thought he might be looking for his dog, so we walked up to him.

I asked, "Hi, is this your puppy?" The man was overjoyed and said, "Yes, yes! Thank you so much! Where did you find him?" My teacher explained that we rescued him from the tree, and the man thanked us again. We were so happy to have done something good that makes people happy! I hope the puppy doesn't climb trees anymore.
